

ROUND 2 · CODING

PB Streak, powered by Cadence

The loop starts with the customer and ends with the customer, better protected.

● FOR THE CUSTOMER

● FOR THE AGENT

● FOR POLICYBAZAAR

Team Hackstreet Boys

Insurance is sold once. Protection changes constantly.

A policy is bought once. Life doesn't pause after that. The cover often does. By day 50 the customer has stopped paying attention. By day 90, they've forgotten what they're actually covered for.

WHY THE SILENCE IS EXPENSIVE

The customer disengages.

Nobody checks in, so they stop thinking about protection. Most people can't tell you what their own policy covers. They know they bought something. They don't know if it's enough.

The gap goes unnoticed.

Life changes in that silence: a child, a loan, a job switch. The cover doesn't change with it. What was adequate at purchase quietly becomes inadequate, and no one is watching.

The renewal lapses.

Disengaged customers don't renew. The industry loses people in the months between sale and renewal, and that's the most expensive churn there is.

The agent flies blind.

A book of hundreds and no signal for who needs them today. So they call whoever they remember, not who's actually at risk.

THE INSIGHT: GIVE RISK A NUMBER PEOPLE TRUST

Before CIBIL, “creditworthy” was a vague feeling. CIBIL made it a number people check, act on, and improve. 750 is good, 580 is risky. We do that for protection. The Protection Score is one number out of 100 for how protected your family is, with one key difference: a credit score can price you. A Protection Score only ever helps you close the gap.

THE STITCH: CUSTOMER TO AGENT AND BACK

Anjali's Protection Score is 62, in the Partial band. Health and term aren't covered. That's real exposure for a family with a home loan. A score alone is a mirror; someone has to act on it. That's the agent, and it's the side we built end to end.

We rank Anjali above Rohit on Opportunity Score, 89 versus 46, not because she's worse protected, but because her renewal is in 9 days and customers like her convert highest right now. The agent books the policy, and in that instant, Anjali's score rises live: 62 → 75, Partial → Secure.

A score creates awareness. Action creates protection.

Awareness becomes action. Action becomes protection.

Two sides of one engine, built end to end.

PARTNER SIDE

Agent weakness to customer protection

1

Know exactly who needs them today

Partner Intelligence ranks the agent's book by Opportunity Score, surfacing exactly where they're underperforming today.

2

Explain why this customer, why now

The Opportunity Score reasons: renewal timing, conversion likelihood, revenue potential.

3

Create today's highest-value action

Cadence writes a mission built for this agent, this customer, this moment: coaching, talking points, the action to take.

4

Arm them with exactly what to say

AI personalised content: greeting cards, a health report card, a pitch script, renewal pending cards.

5

Watch protection rise, live

The agent acts. The customer's real Protection Score moves, live, in that same instant.

CUSTOMER SIDE

What they get

Know exactly where you stand

The Protection Score, shown as a credit-score-style meter with a full breakdown of what's driving it.

See what's missing

Policy insights: every active cover shown plainly, what's held, what's missing, where it came from.

Understand your exposure

Their weak spot, named directly: an exposure alert that says exactly what's uncovered and what closes it.

Ask anything

An AI chat assistant inside the portal, for any question about their own coverage.

Track your progress

A secure customer portal, the mirror of the partner app, built on the same data.

One Protection Score. Three stakeholders who all benefit from the same number.

PROTECTION SCORE ↑ → CUSTOMER PROTECTION IMPROVES → AGENT SUCCESS GROWS → POLICYBAZAAR'S ECOSYSTEM STRENGTHENS

One flywheel, not three separate wins. Every point the score rises improves protection, creates agent opportunity, and strengthens platform retention, all at once.

THE FOUNDATION Two signal engines, Protection Intelligence and Opportunity Intelligence, feed Cadence, the reasoning layer that generates the coaching, the missions, and the content no static system could write. Never used to price, only ever to close a gap. Built on data nobody else has.

FOR THE CUSTOMER

- ✓ Claims that actually pay out, not coverage that's forgotten when it matters most.
- ✓ Gaps closed before the crisis, not discovered during it.
- ✓ Inflation erosion caught early, before it becomes a real, silent loss in cover.

FOR THE AGENT

- ✓ Higher partner activity, driven by missions that target a real weak spot, not a generic nudge.
- ✓ Higher customer engagement, because every action closes a real protection gap.
- ✓ A self-funded incentive model: rewards paid from the value engagement itself creates, not a fixed budget.

FOR POLICYBAZAAR

- ✓ Already sits between every customer and every insurer they could buy from.
- ✓ A Protection Score built on cross insurer visibility, the one thing no single insurer can replicate.
- ✓ Strengthens trust and retention across the whole group, not just one product.

One score. One flywheel. Not three separate wins.

THANK YOU

One score. One flywheel. Three stakeholders, moving together.
